UNCLE JIM DAVIS DEAD

Pioneer Stage Driver of Yuma, Arizona-San Angelo Stage Line Died at Dallas Last Week.

Old Uncle Jim Davis, aged 72 years, who in the pioneer days when Texans bared their breasts on the frontier and made possible the rapid forage of the Lone Star State to the front, drove a stage on the old Yuma-Arizona route through San Angelo, and endeared himself to many a brave heart, died at his home in Dallas last week.

Uncle Jim was a unique, old character and one of the last of the pioneer drivers of this section of the Southwest. Often have the versatile pens of newspaper and magazine writers depicted the experiences of this grim driver of the then wasteloss West.

In the big, rough breast of this figure of the old time stage was the kind heart of a strong brother, who always had the tenderest compassion for the young men about town, who after a night's "mishap" sorely needed the guardianship of some faithful guide.

And, as every kind act and thought is recorded to the credit of every one on the great system of infallible accounting over yonder in that great bourne from whence no traveller ever returneth to tell us of his findings, then to the credit of Old Uncle Jim are many entries of the bright and clear and sheer kindnesses of this stage driver of the pioneer, frontier Southwest.

Talking About Concho Country.

Lampasas Leader.

The people of the Concho country have discovered the value of the auto-car and the Southwestern Transit Co. has established a regular mail and passenger line between Christova, Eldorado, Sonora and San Angelo. A trial trip in one of the big machines convinced the promoters of the line that the project was thoroughly practicable. The trip of seventy odd miles was covered with ease in four hours and thirty-eight minutes, or at an average speed of sixteen miles per hour. The roads in that section are excellent and admit of good speed. At Sonora, the people are from Missouri and had to be shown.

Market Letter.

Special to The Press.

Kansas City, Mo.—The general cattle market has improved 10 to 20 cents this week, fed steers are more than that much higher.
Feeders seem to be holding out for better prices, and receipts of fed steers have not been up to requirements in the last ten days.
Fed cows are selling weak, as buyers are able to fill out with pretty good grass cows from Colorado and the west, cows of good weights at $2.75 to 3.00, and neglect the fed heavy cows for these. Some fed stuff has arrived in the Quarantine division this week, steers at $3.40 to 3.65, slightly higher than a week ago, a few fed cows at $2.75, heavy calves at $2.25 to 3.75, veals around $5.00. Grass steers have been poor quality, ranging in price from $2.40 to 3.00, grass cows a little higher than last week. A good deal of stuff from below the Quarantine line is now coming to the native division, as this is the open season, November 15, till February 1st, and cattle that have been inspected before shipment and found free of ticks are received in the native division.

Mutton market is stronger this week, receipts smaller and quality better. Fed stuff makes up most of the receipts this week, top lambs at $6.50 to 7.10, wethers and yearlings $5.25 to 5.60, ewes 4.50 to 5.00, these prices for both natives and westerns. Considerable numbers of feeding lambs were here last week, selling slowly at $5.25 to 5.75, as it getting late in the season for them.

The Wool Trade.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 25.—The large consumers are temporarily out of the wool market, and the business which is being done is with the smaller mills; and as the demand from the latter is not at all active, the volume of trade is not large. With most houses, trade is positively dull. If there were better selections of staple territory wools here, some are confident that a larger business could have been done. On several varieties and descriptions prices continue to favor the buyer, as in the case of short clothing wools, short California and Texas wools, and fine fleeces, washed and unwashed. With reference to half-blood staple wools, however, there is no weakness apparent.

The receipts of wool in Boston this week amounted to 7,380 bales against 7,272 bales last week and 11,021 bales last year.

The sales since January 1, amount to 218,484,000 pounds, against 262,197,000 for the corresponding time last year.
